

Rewarding our Volunteers through free event entry or training

May 2018

Volunteers who have made a major contribution to an event and forgone the opportunity to participate will be offered free entry to a NSWRA organised Rogaine, or a contribution to training.

Who is eligible?

- Volunteers who have made a major contribution to an event and forgone the opportunity to participate will be offered a free entry.
- These are typically Event Organisers, Course Setters, Vettors, etc. who have given up at least one full day of their time.

Who is not eligible?

- Anyone who has contributed less than 6 hrs, typically flag retrievers, admin assistants and on the day helpers.
- These volunteers will be noted and where a they have made a significant contribution over time or at a specific event, they may be awarded a free entry.

Alternatively, in exchange for an awarded free entry, NSWRA will contribute up to $100 dollars to the cost of a recognised training course that is relevant to rogaining. Courses that are recognised include basic and senior first aid, remote area first aid and event management training. Any training course needs to be approved by two NSWRA committee members and there will be an expectation that the recipient will utilise their new skills in future NSWRA events,

Following each Rogaine, the event organiser will provide to NSWRA's Volunteer Coordinator a list of people who contributed, along with any recommendations for exceptional contributions. The Volunteer Coordinator will email all volunteers thanking them for their assistance and if appropriate, advising them of their free entry reward.

Prior to registration opening for each event, the Volunteer Coordinator will email a unique code to all volunteers that have earned a free entry over the past 12 months. This code can be used to claim free entry when registering for the event.

Aside from the published register of volunteers and events, there will be no publication or promotion of volunteer rewards.

Restrictions:

- Free entry rewards expire 12 months after the date they are earned.
- Free entries are not transferrable.

If eligible volunteers are overlooked in this process, they should contact NSWRA's Volunteer coordinator who will make relevant enquiries and let the volunteer know the outcome.
